Texas Society of Professional Engineers (TSPE)

There are various levels of scholarships available to high school seniors entering ABET Accredited Engineering Programs given by TSPE Chapters throughout the state.

Interested students will need to fill out the Scholarship Application and submit it to their local area Chapter Scholarship Coordinator. Please contact the chapter scholarship coordinator before completing your application as there may be additional criteria, not listed on the application, required by the chapter.

Use the School District to Chapter Reference finder to see which chapter coordinator you will contact. If you are a private or homeschooled student, you will use the corresponding ISD in which you live to submit to that chapter.

SAT or ACT scores sent directly from those entities to TEF/TSPE will not be considered. A copy of the SAT or ACT scores must be attached to the scholarship application.

Student Loans in Texas

Exhausting your options for Texas grants and scholarships should obviously be your priority, as these usually never require repayment. Once those options are exhausted, however, explore what federal student loan possibilities are on the table. Federal student loans typically come with lower interest rates and more protections than private student loans. When all else fails, your next best option is to shop around for a state-based private student loan. To help get you started, here are a few state-based private student loan options.

College Access Loan (CAL)

CAL is provided through the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board. These Texas student loans are open to residents enrolled at least part-time in an approved academic program. The loan is issued based on having a credit rating above 650, or with the assistance of a cosigner. It currently offers a relatively low annual interest rate of 6.60%, with terms of 10 years for anything under $30,000, and 20 years for those loans over $30,000. More information is available on its website.

Texas Extra Credit Loan

This loan is open to Texan students enrolled at least part-time for upwards of $65,000. They have both variable and fixed rate options. Terms vary between 10 to 15 years. Check out their website for more details.

Higher Education Loan

The Greater Texas Federal Credit Union offers this option to its banking clients age 18 and up, and who have at least five years of established credit history. It offers both variable- and fixed-rate options, currently ranging from 5.59% to 13.59%. The maximum loan amount is for $50,000. For full details on eligibility and loan statistics, contact one of the customer service representatives.

Scholarships for College Students in Texas

Scholarships for Texas students are often merit-based but are also usually quite specialized. Who you are matters, and it can pay off to consider all your characteristics and associations that make you stand out from your peers. Are you a member of a community organization like the Boy Scouts of America? Are your parents part of the Rotary Club or local business associations? These associations can pay off as they often have scholarship programs.

Many organizations provide scholarships to ethnic minorities or comparatively underserved communities. There are also often scholarships for specific industries or academic departments. Speak with your school's financial aid office for more information on which scholarships could apply to you.

There are many scholarships for college students in Texas available outside of the FAFSA program. Here are five to get you started:
